Current <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. "To promote student success; retention, persistence and completion, the College maintains minimum academic standards and initiates additional requirements which support students who do not meet the minimum academic standards. Students who are identified as an International Student or Athlete, or who are enrolled in particular programs, may be held to higher or more restrictive requirements." 2. Proposed <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. "To promote student success; retention, persistence and completion, the College maintains minimum academic standards and initiates additional requirements which support students who do not meet the minimum academic standards. Students who are receiving financial assistance, who are identified as an International Student or Athlete, or who are enrolled in particular programs, may be held to higher or more restrictive requirements." 	Proposal indicates the international students or athletes that receive financial aid are the only ones that may need to meet higher standards. Not all student athletes receive athletic aid, thus the restrictive descriptor may not always describe the whole population. We'll leave the less restrictive description of student scenarios.
