Constituent Comment on Campus Safety

An employee recently shared concerns about campus safety. They have heard several accounts of different instances of aggressive and combative behavior by students towards staff. In at least one case objects were thrown at a staff member. Additionally, it was reported that staff members do not feel equipped to de-escalate a situation. They also do not feel supported in their choice to involve law enforcement or other security but instead felt they were being reprimanded for doing so. It is unclear if there is an actual rise in aggressive behavior on campus but it seems important to start a conversation about potential training in de-escalation measures; appropriate moments to call in law enforcement and; general support for staff members that may feel threatened.
